Ron takes joy in serving behind the scenes, doing the work that enables and equips others to fulfill their own calling from the Lord. His strong business background: having run a successful consulting firm for over 20 years combined with his experience working with organizations that have served in the areas of low-income housing, inner-city health services, educational services, student sports, and fine arts gives him a wealth of experience in providing services that benefit others. He prays for wisdom that these experiences along with his almost five decades of trying to emulate Christ will allow him to continue to serve in ways that will constantly stretch his skills and increase his faith.
